

Maine Bangor Training Site

Facility and Location

Bangor Training Site (TS) is a 160 acre facility located in Penobscot County within the city of Bangor. The northeastern boundary of the TS abuts the Bangor International Airport. The TS was originally part of Dow Air Force Base (AFB). Following permanent closure of Dow AFB in 1968, the property was transferred to the city of Bangor, and the Bangor International Airport was developed. The property is currently leased to the Maine Army National Guard by the Air Force. The TS consists of six operational range areas encompassing 160 acres. Training activities conducted at Bangor TS include the use of maneuver and training areas, landing zones, and a firing range.
